Within a few hours yesterday afternoon the Commercial club committee having in charge the raising of funds to defray the expenses of the High school cadets to San Francisco to take part in the festivities attendant upon the arrival of the battleship fleet secured $1,600 as a nucleus of the fund. With a single exception, every person called upon yesterday by the committee contributed generously to the fund. The liberality with which the contributions are being made insures the success of the enterprise.

P. J. Moran, who heads the subscription list with $500, has taken a keen interest in the High school cadets. The committee will call on as many business men as possible within the next few days, but in order that no one need wait to be asked personally before contributing subscriptions to the fund will be received at The Herald office and other newspaper offices and at all large stores. The committee is making an effort to raise $3,000 to defray the expenses of the boys.

W. H. Bancroft and Dr. G. E. Pfoutz of Salt Lake called on Admiral Evans at Paso Robles yesterday to talk over with him as to his plans, and it is understood that tentative arrangements to have the boys act as his personal bodyguard in the week they will spend in San Francisco. The boys will march in the parade, accompany Admiral Evans on his official visits, and will give an exhibition drill on the Connecticut. Evans' flag ship, according to the present plans, the cadet battalion will leave Salt Lake May 2 and return a week later.

The cadets will march through Main street tomorrow afternoon. The battalion of six full companies will be preceded by its own band. By the time the parade people will gain something of an idea of what the trip to San Francisco will mean, both to the boys and to Utah. If adequate policing can be secured, the battalion will give a simple military drill on Main street.

UTAH GUARD INSPECTION

Creditable Military Organization Established Through Hard Work of Officers.

The official government inspection of Company C and the signal corps of the Utah National guard was made last evening at the armory by Major William T. May of the Fifteenth regiment at Fort Douglas. A large percentage of the enrollment of both organizations were present for inspection and showed up well in drill and in their knowledge of military tactics.

On Monday evening Major Day inspected the battery of the Signal Corps. Both organizations showed up exceptionally well. Company H was the prize company at last summer's encampment. The battery, which is a recently organized, has nearly its full quota of men and is in good military standing. Over 90 per cent of the membership of each organization was present for inspection.

The record attendance was at the inspection of the band on Tuesday evening, when the attendance was 100 per cent. The National Guard of Utah is now in better standing than ever before in its history. Through hard work of its officers and men it has become a creditable military organization. There are now in the guard over 300 enlisted men and 25 officers. One and possibly two, new companies are talked of and they will probably be mustered in before this summer's encampment.

COURT NOTES.

Alleging that her husband, Charles F. Good, was not good to her, Esther Good yesterday filed a suit for divorce in the district court. The wife asserts that she married Good June 21, 1905, and that since Jan. 1, 1906, he has failed to provide her with the common necessities of life.

William Bowden yesterday filed a petition in the district court asking for letters testamentary of the will of Carrie Madsen, who died at Mill Creek April 2 and left property valued at $725.

John E. Butler yesterday petitioned the probate judge of the district court for letters of administration for the estate of Esther Butler, who died Dec. 4, 1906, and left real estate valued at $2,500.

GAMBLER APPEARS IN ROLE OF SUCKER

Kid Sandberg Is Nicely Trimmed and Tells Police the Game Was Crooked.

"Kid" Sandberg, after the closing of his gambling place on Second South, near Commercial street, had an opportunity to appear before the public as "Citizen" Sandberg and earn a new nickname. But the rush of feeling attending the awakening in his heart of a spirit of civic righteousness, which caused him to go to the police headquarters with a tale of woe, ebbed quickly.

The result was that "Kid" Sandberg found favor with neither the police nor his old cronies in the gambling fraternity, and has even been called by some a "squalor."

The "kid" went to Chief of Police Pitt and demanded that a raid be made upon an alleged gambling house over the Occidental saloon, on First South street, near Main.

He stated that he went into the place and played poker. Something was wrong with the cards, he declared, and he quickly lost $100. Then he hypothesized a diamond ring with the game keeper for $25. This followed the $100 into the pockets of other men. Needing more chips, and filled with the lust of conquest, despite the drubbing he had received, he "hooked" his gold watch for $50.

The $50 disappeared in double-quick time. Left with no other jewelry to hypothecate, the "kid" humbly asked permission to borrow more money upon the ring and the watch. This was refused.

Then it dawned upon him that there was "something wrong" with the cards. He sprinted to police headquarters and asked Chief Pitt to arrest the gamblers who had won his money. The "kid" asserted that the knights of the green cloth had profited by his youth and inexperience and had cruelly stung him. Chief Pitt told the unlucky gambler that if he would swear to complaints against the men who had gambled with him arrests would promptly be made.

"Kid" Sandberg at this seemed to be attacked with a sudden chill. His eagerness to make a statement of "Citizen" Sandberg cooled perceptibly.

He left police headquarters and did not return.

The committee consists of W. V. The joint committees of the two camps have completed all arrangements for an enjoyable evening. The ladies of the two organizations will assist on the reception and entertainment committees.

WILL EXTEND FOREST WORK

Wasatch Planting Station Is to Be Doubled in Capacity—Water-sheds to Be Improved.

E. H. Clarke, the supervisor for the Salt Lake and Wasatch national forests, has received authorization from the forester in Washington to double the capacity of the planting station on the Wasatch forest, making it a two million-tree station, instead of one half that number, as at present. This capacity, the word from Washington is, will be increased each year until a maximum of four million has been reached.

The station will be a supply headquarters for the district, the only other station being at Pocatello, with a capacity of 300,000, which will be increased to 500,000. The increased capacity means the employment of many more laborers.

For the protection of the watershed provision is made in the order from Washington. The city watershed has been examined to the extent of 20,000 acres. It is estimated that there are 250,000 acres remaining in need of reforestation. There will be carefully examined as the work progresses.

It is the aim to establish one big station, instead of having a number of small ones, the economy of such a step having been proved.

COUNTY ASSESSMENT FOR 1908 SHOWS NET INCREASE DESPITE REDUCTION IN RURAL DISTRICTS

Comparative statement of assessment of Salt Lake county for years 1907 and 1908:

	1907	1908	Inc.
Real estate	$23,670,526	$24,355,076	$ 684,550
Patented mining claims	65,793	71,869	6,076
Improvements	16,658,171	17,447,146	1,388,975
Horses	287,095	307,890	20,795
Cattle	144,198	156,500	12,302
Sheep	26,571	26,610	39
Swine	4,196	4,161	35
Bees	5,401,470	5,796,385	394,915
Merchandise	2,756,708	2,585,495	$ 171,213
Solvent credits	5,968,881	4,094,611	$ 1,874,270
Money	324,438	214,962	109,476
Personal property not otherwise enumerated	2,757,972	3,106,985	349,013
Total value of all property assessed	$57,688,447	$59,207,890	$ 1,519,442
Net increase			1,519,442

Among the items showing a decrease are solvent credits, with a reduction of $1,874,270, and money, with a decrease of $109,476. The net increase on the total valuation is thus reduced to $1,519,442.

Estimated city assessment, 1907, $48,750,000. City assessment, 1908, $49,000,000.

Campbell M. Brown, county assessor, yesterday completed his assessment of the county and gave out the above table for publication.

The county assessment is $59,207,890, showing an increase of $1,519,442 over 1907.

To this must be added the assessments made by the state board of equalization which have not been reported. Last year these amounted to $5,750,000, and this year they are expected to bring the total assessment up to $65,000,000. In 1907 the total assessment was $63,255,151, including the board's assessments.

The city assessment for 1907, without considering the assessments to be made by the state board, is $48,750,000.

In 1907 the board's assessment apportioned to the city was $3,182,553. This year it is expected that it will raise the total assessment of the city to at least $48,750,000, which is $1,750,000 above the 1907 assessment.

The tables printed above show that in the county there has been an increase of $844,550 in the real estate assessment.

According to Mr. Brown, most of this increase is in the business district of Salt Lake City, and fully $500,000 of it on Main street, where the increase is 10 per cent, as was previously announced.

Little if any increase has been made

AUTO DESTROYED IN BLAZING SHED

T. W. Spiegel in Effort to Rescue Machine, Has Narrow Escape.

Struggling to save an automobile from a burning garage in Ninth South street, between State and Main streets, last night about 10 o'clock T. W. Spiegel found himself surrounded by flames, coal oil and just had time to escape, hatless and coatless, from the burning building.

The automobile belonged to Dr. H. S. Scott of 321 Second avenue. Spiegel had been employed by Dr. Scott to put the machine in readiness for use next Sunday. Last night he went to the garage, which was a small wooden shed, and commenced to clean the parts of the auto with coal oil by the light of a tallow candle. While Spiegel was at work the candle dropped from his hand into the oil. It leaped into flames.

Spiegel's first thought was to save the machine, but he was unable to force open the door through which it was necessary to shove the auto.

As he struggled the oil blazed about him and his face and hands were slightly scorched. Seeing that his position was becoming dangerous, Spiegel fled from the building, leaving his hat and coat behind him. He telephoned to the fire department from a nearby house.

By that time the fire structure was a mass of flames, and there was no hope of saving either the building or anything it contained.

Dr. Scott stated last night that the auto was worth about $1,800. It was utterly destroyed.

TRY TO CHASTISE DAY

Wife Would Use Steel Rod to Remind Delinquent Husband of His Promises.

By opportunely passing the corner of Second South and Main streets last night Sheriff Emery saved Gus Day, formerly of West Fifth South street, from chastisement by Mrs. Day. The angry wife, with a steel rod in her hand, rushed at Day as though determined to even up all old scores that remained unsettled between the pair.

She pulled Day out of the way and led him toward Smith's drug store. When he turned to see what had become of Mrs. Day, she had disappeared.

Day and his wife discovered that they were not happily married some time ago. Day went to Nevada, and according to his wife, apparently forgot all about her. When he returned to Salt Lake she had him arrested, alleging that he had failed to provide for her support. In some way induced his wife to drop the case, as he was soon afterward released.

It is said that he made promises to Mrs. Day that he would give her a portion of his earnings. A coal wagon was used to transport the husband. The wife's attack upon the husband is understood to indicate that Day had forgotten his promises.

LYON FRES ON FLEEING THIEVES

Fugitives Drop Valise Filled With Bricks and Make Their Escape.

Two thieves, running away with a valise filled with bricks, were fired upon last night by Policeman J. M. Lyon. They dropped the bricks, but kept on running and succeeded in getting away. The bricks had been placed in the valise by the policeman, after he had removed about $100 worth of stolen tools.

The story of the valise, the bricks and the thieves began yesterday morning, when Anton Pelko, a Hungarian mechanic, arrived in Salt Lake from California. He left the valise filled with tools in the Utopia cafe at 350 West South Temple street, and then went on in search of work. When he returned, the valise was gone.

He told Policeman Lyon of his loss. After a long search, the policeman found the stolen grip where it had been hidden a few doors away by the thieves.

The policeman took out the tools and filled the valise with bricks. Then he concealed himself and waited for the rogues to return for the plunder.

After waiting for a long time, the two men appeared and picked up the valise. Policeman Lyon, leaving his hiding place, started after them. Seeing him, they took to their heels, still carrying the valise. Thinking to stop them, the policeman fired a shot. This caused the frightened thieves to drop the valise on the ground. After that they parted and were both soon out of sight.

SEEK TO ENLARGE RESERVE

Real Estate Association Asks Adequate Protection for Region of Natural Bridges.

Judge E. F. Colborn, president of the Salt Lake Real Estate association, will communicate soon with the Utah delegation in congress and request that its members use their influence to have the government establish a larger reserve in the section of San Juan county in which the natural bridges are. There is at present a forty-acre reserve in this section, and the government will be asked to increase it to a township six miles square. The matter was brought up before the meeting of the Real Estate association yesterday noon at the Commercial club and Judge Colborn was instructed by the board of governors to take action as soon as possible in order that the reserve might be established before any private interests are located in this section.

The purpose of the reserve would be to create a national park, which the natural wonders of this section might be the better preserved.

The Real Estate association yesterday endorsed the petition filed by the California Promotion committee of San Francisco and asking the secretary of the navy to maintain a permanent fleet of battleships in the Pacific to protect the western coast. One copy of the petition with the endorsement of the association was sent to the committee in San Francisco, and the other copy to the secretary of the navy.

A request from the high school superintendent of St. Joseph, Mo., asking for slides for stereopticon views of Salt Lake City and Utah, giving an idea of the industries of the state, was received. The association decided to present with the State Fair association and the Manufacturers' and Merchants' association in furnishing these slides for the school superintendent. They will be used in illustrated lectures in the high schools throughout Missouri.

The Chicago Real Estate board asked that the association send a delegate to a meeting of the real estate men of the country to be held in Chicago May 12, 13 and 14. The Salt Lake association decided to be represented at the meeting.

L. M. Bannock was elected a member of the association.

HIS TROLLEY OFF AND HE DIDN'T KNOW IT.

The big new car on the 7th street line was crowded with the usual noon crowd. The seats were all filled with people hurrying home for lunch, many of them shop girls with only an hour to spend. The motorcar made its usual run and the power was off.

"Well, I suppose we'll spend the entire hour here," remarked one.

"I wonder who's the matter?" said another. "I see the Brigham street line is running."

The obliging conductor swung the controller over five points, proving that there was no power to be had. Finally the better part of the crowd, realizing the old adage about time and its habit of fleeing, clambered out of the vehicle and started to "foot" it the rest of the way home. The motorcar made its usual run and the power was off.

OUTBREAK OF LAWLESSNESS ATTRIBUTED TO FAILURE TO CAPTURE MAN WHO ROBBED FARNSWORTH.

Joe Henry, a messenger boy, was arrested yesterday morning and charged with robbing C. M. Bird of $16.50 and a gold watch on Tuesday night, back of the Alamo saloon, a Commercial street resort.

Bird was drinking in the saloon and was laid, hauled to the rear of the place by a young man wearing a messenger's cap.

The police arrested several messenger boys. Bird picked Henry from the crowd.

The present outbreak of lawlessness in Commercial street is believed to have been due to the failure of the police to capture the men who robbed a teamster named Farnsworth of $460 in the Alamo saloon last week.

When Farnsworth was robbed, he was drinking in the place and exhibited his money. It disappeared. He caused the arrest of one man, but the accused man was released because Farnsworth was drunk at the time he lost his money. One of the witnesses called for the defense of the man accused of robbing Farnsworth was City Jailor Ripley, who testified that Farnsworth was intoxicated when he arrived at police headquarters.

ADVERTISING THAT IS GOOD FOR THE PEOPLE

Said a customer the other day: "I have been reading your advertisements with interest and I believe they are of real benefit to the people. I know of two young men that have opened savings accounts with you recently who were encouraged to do so by your advertising. You are doing good work and should be proud of it."

It is, indeed, a source of satisfaction to us to know that our advertisements have made us acquainted with young men and women—and older ones, too, for that matter—who have been encouraged by these announcements to start savings accounts.

The foundation of all independence and prosperity is learning to save. It makes young men self-reliant and frugal, and gives them a real start on the road to success.

This bank honors the man, the boy, the woman, or the girl who deposits a dollar to open an account. It, moreover, appreciates the business of this nature, as a number of small accounts aggregate a total sufficiency large to yield us profitable returns. And savings accounts, no matter how small the beginning, have a very satisfactory way of growing larger.
